

BE A
FAN
OF YOUR KID

A full day of fun.

16 hours of activities bringing parents & kids together.

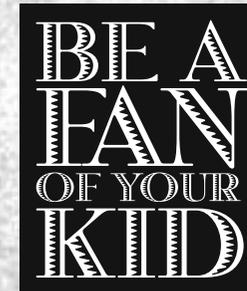

www.BeAFanOfYourKid.org

These groups are fans of your kid, too. Please support them.

Time is the most important thing you can give your kids. And it's so easy to give. You'd be surprised. You don't have to be a great entertainer, do funny accents or even have anything in particular to do. Just spending time together is important. Especially when you consider the fact that the average father spends only 35 minutes a WEEK with his child. So we've created this book of free and easy things to do with your child. While it's a full day of fun, you don't have to do them all at once. Pick one or two a week, and then go back and do the ones you like over again. Or make up some fun activities of your own. Making time is the best way to Be A Fan Of Your Kid.

6 a.m.

Watch
the sun •
rise

Seeing the world bathed in a wash of pink from the rising sun can put a whole new perspective on your day.

7 a.m.

Make
breakfast
in bed
for mom
for no reason

Think about what Mom likes for breakfast and deliver it.

Don't forget to clean the kitchen!

8 a.m.

Draw a picture together

Grab some crayons. Don't pay attention to the lines, just create and color away.
Sign it and put it up on the fridge.

9 a.m.

Play catch

Ah, the old stand-by. Form, ability and equipment don't matter. Try it on one foot or with one hand if it gets too easy.

10 a.m.

Play
a board
game

There's a reason why these games are still around even with the popularity of video games.
They're fun and truly interactive.

11 a.m.

Go
A for walk
together

Destination: Up to you.
Simply walking outside allows conversation to flow like it can't inside.

Noon

Make a picnic
and eat it in the park

Eating outside is fun and the food tastes better.

Spread out a blanket and eat outside for a change.

If it's cold, try a picnic in the living room.

1 p.m.

Go to the train station
and watch
the trains
depart

There's something about these huge cars moving forward, slowly at first and then picking up steam, that can't be matched on television. You have to see them for yourselves.

2 p.m.

Go to the fire station
and talk with the fire
fighters

With their uniforms, helmets and loud engines, these guys are kids' heroes. They're also great to get to know and might let you sit in the fire truck.

3 p.m.

Make
up a joke
together

It doesn't have to be funny to anyone but you two.

It can be as silly or as stupid as you'd like.
It will always be yours to share.

4 p.m.

Turn
a chore
into a secret
mission

*An errand to the post office, cleaners or grocery store
can turn into fun with the right spin.
Sneak around corners and add sound effects where necessary.*

5 p.m.

Donate
an hour
to the needy

*Giving makes everyone feel good.
Together pick a charity and donate an hour of time.
Go back again if you like it.*

6 p.m.

• Make
dinner
for the family

*Pick a theme for the evening,
and then plan, shop
and cook a meal together.*

7 p.m.

Make
some music

The Jacksons, the Osmonds, the Hansons.

These families made it big. All you have to do is make some noise.

8 p.m.

No rules,
just an hour
of fun

Now's the time to jump on the bed, make snowmen out of whipped cream or have an old fashioned pillow fight.

For an hour there are no rules.

9 p.m.

Read
a book
together

*Take a trip to a far-off land,
a different time, an impossible situation
-all without leaving your living room.*
